RICHARDSON WILL HANG APRIL 26, SUGGESTION OF ERROR IS OVERRULED

Last Appeal to Supreme Court Finds Three Judges, Ethridge, Griffith and Anderson, of the Opinion that Decision of Court Was Final.

Silas Richardson, Bay St. Louis negro found guilty of shooting and killing John Dambrino of Bay St. Louis and wounding Chief of Police Mark Oliver, in the city hall here at the summer, will hang April 26 at the local jail, the final appeal of the lawyers for the convicted man having failed. After the negro was found guilty in circuit court here and sentenced to hang, his attorneys took the case to the supreme court, and a decision was handed down by that body a few weeks ago in which the judges, Griffith, Ethridge and Anderson, dissented and the decision of the circuit court was therefore upheld.

The attorneys for Richardson filed with the fifteen days granted a suggestion of error. Monday a decision was handed down from the supreme court in which the suggestion of error was overruled, the same three judges dissenting in their decision as in the former decision.

FATHERS NIGHT AT CENTRAL P.T. A. PROVES PLEASANT

The Program was Featured Tuesday Night With Addresses by Several Fathers.

The Fathers Night entertainment given Tuesday night by the Central Parent-Teachers' Association at the Central School, proved quite pleasant with a good number of parents in attendance to enjoy the interesting program for the occasion. This program was featured by talks by several of the fathers. Mrs. C. C. McDonald, president and county chairman-elect, presided at the meeting.

Mrs. James A. Evans, president-elect, gave a report of the recent P. T. A. state convention in Vicksburg which she attended in company with Mrs. McDonald and Dr. Evans.

Dr. James A. Evans' address on Good English was highly enjoyable. C. E. Craft, coach and athletic director at the school, discussed Physical Education and its value to students. Prof. S. J. Ingram, superintendent of schools, used as his subject, Character Building. C. C. McDonald spoke on Courtesy. Miss Attica Aitkens rendered a piano solo. All sang the P. T. A. songs.

At the close of the program refreshments of sandwiches and lemonade were served by a committee of the teachers of which Miss Mary Florida Cossar was chairman.

KILN P. T. A. MAKES WORTH WHILE REPORT

Capture Trophies at Vicksburg—Officers Re-Elected For Next Year.

At the regular P. T. A. meeting held on March 28, 29, the same officers were unanimously elected for the 1929-1930 term. Mrs. W. H. Seider, President; Mrs. C. R. Burke, Vice-President; Miss Jessie Cuyler, Secretary; Miss Leo Doby, Treasurer.

It was decided to send delegates to the Convention at Vicksburg, several were named, though only one, Miss Leo Doby accepted the invitation to represent the Association.

Leaving Gulfport, on the Bus, on Tuesday morning and returning Friday evening. The trophies brought home have certainly inspired us, to try to do better next year.

Only nine Standard of Excellence, were given in the State, Kiln received one of these we also secured the National Standard of Excellence; third place on Poster, our delegate was an honored guest at the Loyalty Banquet. Kiln's idea on Poster, having the oak, emblem of the P. T. A., shedding acorns representing the activities was thought to be very unique and original. Our mascot and quilt method of raising money had to be explained.

The members of the P. T. A. should be proud to think what honors their association has received, stand together and try to do as well, if not better next year.

PLAY FRIDAY AT STANISLAUS IS MOST SUCCESSFUL

Cast of Pass Christian and Bay St. Louis People Present Interesting Play.

The play, "The Path Across the Hill," presented Friday night at Stanislaus College, proved quite successful and the large number present expressed their appreciation of the acting of the members of the cast who came from Pass Christian and Bay St. Louis.

"THE GIRL ON THE BARGE" TO BE SHOWN HERE SOON

Jean Hersholt Starred In Rupert Hughes Story.

SALLY O'NEAL FEATURED.

The management of the A. & G. Theatre announces that Jean Hersholt's latest photoplay, a Universal Special adapted from the popular Rupert Hughes story, "The Girl on the Barge," is coming to that Theatre next Wednesday and Thursday. Added interest to this news is contained in the information that vivacious Sally O'Neal and Malcolm MacGregor, also Bay St. Louis favorite, have featured roles in the picture.

"The Girl on the Barge" is a story of young love along the Erie Canal, and the picture actually was photographed along the picturesque waterways in upper New York State. Edward Sloman, the director brought the principals and a large technical staff all the way from California to get the correct backgrounds for the entertaining Hughes story.

The plot concerns a hard-drinking Scotch barge captain with four motherless children. Erie, the oldest daughter, falls in love with the pilot of the tug-boat which draws the barge upon which she lives. This enrages her father, who causes the pilot's dismissal. After a severe beating, Erie deserts the barge and flees to the pilot's rooms ashore, but is dragged back to her unhappy home after seeing her sweetheart cruelly battered by her father's powerful fists. How the pilot's bravery, during a terrific storm in which the barge is threatened by destruction, saves the lives of the barge captain's family and wins his admiration, makes an exciting and fitting climax to the picture.

SUCCESSFUL VISIT SAT. OF A. A. U. W.

Bay St. Louis Cooperates With Gulf Coast Chapter to Welcome University Women.

Most successful was the visit to the Coast Saturday of last week of some 200 delegates to the biennial convention of the American Association of University Women who came from New Orleans for a national play-day. The party arrived from New Orleans in two special coaches attached to the morning train, stopping in Bay St. Louis at 10:28 o'clock.

It would be impossible to express the happiness and pleasure of these visitors in the cordial welcome which was extended them as they arrived in Bay St. Louis. Met by a group of children bearing bouquets of lovely flowers which were tendered each guest and pins thoughtfully provided, welcomed by the band from St. Stanislaus College under the direction of Brother Oliver, with members of the Gulf Coast Chapter of the A. A. U. W. of Gulfport, under whose auspices the excursion had been arranged, on hand to direct the visitors to the more than fifty autos waiting for them, a particularly happy impression was made on the delegates.

The flowers for the welcome were arranged by Mrs. Chas. G. Moreau and Mrs. E. J. Leonhard who were assisted with donations of flowers from the children of the fifth and sixth grades under the supervision of their teacher, Miss Maxine Mitchell, with sweet peas from the garden of the Misses Bella and Louise Faust and with flowers from a number of other delegates from the American Association of University Women were entertained at an afternoon reception Saturday following their convention in New Orleans.

The cooperation of the citizens of the entire Coast and the Chambers of Commerce of Bay St. Louis and Pass Christian the many autos to transport the party on the Coast ride were furnished. Miss Mathilde Ladner, secretary of the Bay St. Louis Chamber of Commerce, served as local chairman to secure cars from Bay St. Louis. Among those having cars for the trip from the Bay were: Eddie Payard, Chas. Breath, Sr., Mrs. Leo Seal, Miss Levia Engman, Mrs. E. J. Leonhard, Mrs. C. C. McDonald, Miss Clara Kerosien, Mrs. George Rea, Mrs. Winfield Partridge, Mrs. H. S. Leshaw, Mrs. J. A. Evans, Miss Judith Mauffray, Miss Mayme O'Dom, Chas. G. BANKERS GUESTS SHOWN PLACE OF MISS. GULF COAST

Mr. and Mrs. Hecht Entertain Hundreds at their Home on Pass Beach.

The Japanese Garden of Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph S. Hecht at their home on the Pass Christian Beach, easily the show place of the Mississippi Gulf Coast, was a veritable fairy land Monday night, when both, as hosts, entertained privately about 500 members of the American Bankers' Association, in convention at that time at Edgewater Gulf Hotel.

The garden, with its beautiful shrubbery and statues, illuminated fountain and pools, was lighted with myriads of Japanese lanterns, and it was here that the guests were served a delectable supper, after which dancing was enjoyed on a specially constructed pavilion in the garden. During the supper hour the guests were entertained by Miss Greichen Hecht, young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Hecht, when she and a group of young ladies gave several dances and Miss Edna Talbert of New Orleans sang a group of southern melodies.

The bankers were brought to Pass Christian in ten busses and a number of automobiles in the late afternoon and remained there for several hours before returning to the convention.

The garden, which is unique in this section of the country, elicited much admiration from the many bankers present, as it has on a number of occasions when Mr. and Mrs. Hecht have entertained numerous parties there. It was at this garden that delegates from the American Association of University Women were entertained at an afternoon reception Saturday following their convention in New Orleans.

Daughter is Born.

Mr. and Mrs. Pedro Monti announce the birth April 9, of a fine 8-pound baby daughter.

Four cases of unusual interest occurred this week in Hancock county, three of which took place over the week-end near Kiln and in which Lander Necaise, deputy Sheriff, made four arrests, and the arrest in the fourth case was made Wednesday at Bay St. Louis by Deputy Sheriff Jos. V. Bontemps.

Hits Man With Auto Pump.
Placide Hoda, 24, is in jail in Bay St. Louis and Alfonso Ladner, 28, is in the hospital at Lumberton in a serious condition, as a result of an argument Saturday night in which Hoda hit Ladner over the head with an automobile pump. This pump was said to have sunk several inches into the man's head. The attack took place at the home of Emile Hoda in the Standard neighborhood, beat 3. Deputy Necaise arrested Hoda Sunday afternoon and took him to jail where he is held without bail pending the outcome of the injury. The argument or fight took place at a party at the Emile Hoda home.

Strikes Father with Crank.
At the same party which Hoda struck Ladner, a younger brother, Clemes Hoda, struck his father over the head with an auto crank, causing a deep head wound. Deputy Necaise arrested young Hoda Sunday afternoon, taking him to jail in Bay St. Louis. He was released Tuesday morning on $500 bail and will appear before Justice of the Peace F. Fuente at Kiln Saturday on a charge of assault and battery.

Steal Auto Casings.
Two negroes, Theodore McMillan and Wallace Haynes, both of Kiln, are in jail at Bay St. Louis, charged with grand larceny in the theft of three auto casings taken from a third negro, Asbury Dardon of Catahoula. Deputy Necaise chased him from Sunday afternoon until Monday afternoon, going to all the lumber camps in the section and finally apprehended him Monday afternoon at Poplarville. He will be tried Saturday morning before Justice of the Peace F. Fuente at Kiln.

Deputy Necaise was kept extremely busy over the week-end apprehending these four negroes. He stated that he travelled several hundred miles in search of the various prisoners whom he brought successfully to jail in Bay St. Louis.

Narcotic Agent.
Deputy Sheriff Jos. V. Bontemps arrested Amos Lover of Norfolk, Va., an alleged narcotic agent, at the L. & N. station at Bay St. Louis Wednesday morning about 10:30 o'clock, as the negro talked in the telephone booth. Deputy Bontemps had received word of the negro's activities from Norfolk where he is wanted. He has communicated with Norfolk officials as to the disposition of the negro.

APPOINTED STATE CHAIRMAN FOR P.- T. A. COMMITTEE

Mrs. C. C. McDonald Honored at State Meet—Kiln Wins Two Honors At Vicksburg.

Among the honors which came to the 11th district of the Parent-Teachers Association at the state convention at Vicksburg, last week, was the appointment of Mrs. C. C. McDonald of Bay St. Louis, who is Hancock County chairman, as chairman of the State committee on the study of the pre-school child. Mrs. McDonald's work in the summer round up and clinic in Bay St. Louis last summer among the children of pre-school ages, has met with much favorable comment in the state.

Kiln P. T. A. has the distinction of being one of nine organizations in the state to have reached the state standard. Three more of this nine are also in the 11th district, these being the East Ward, Central Ward and West Ward P. T. A. of Gulfport. This district bears the further distinction of having nine of the 34 P. T. A.'s, of the state to have reached the national standard.

Kiln received a second honor in being named third place in the poster exhibit. From about 60 exhibits at the convention three places were named.

The district report showed excellent work in contributing to all purposes of the association, the 11th district having contributed more than any other district in the state. One third of the furnishings for the state office was contributed by the 11th district.

An increase in membership of 39 per cent was reported.

This fine district work has been done under the direction of Mrs. A. E. Favre, district chairman.

Gulfport was chosen as the 1930 convention city, the executive board selecting Gulfport in a special session held at the close of the state meet.

CHAPTER 1. What's the Use?

Grandmother Page refused to budge. I turned her over again, but there was no sign of life. I squirted gasoline into her cylinders, but she didn't seem to care for it.

As you may have surmised, Grandmother Page is a relation of mine only by adoption and purchase. She originally was created and assembled by the Page Motor Company of Detroit, but that was so long ago that her years fully entitle her to the title of "Grandmother."

She had had a hard life, too. For four years she has been going nearly everywhere that I go, and for a long time before that she was the traveling companion of a suburban real-estate man who could sell gold bricks to placer miners. I suspect that he taught her some of her deceitful tricks.

It must have been from him that she got her love for country. She revels in green fields and running brooks and sand-banks and mudholes. Whenever she finds one she always wants to stay there all day. The farther it is from the city the better she likes it.

I personally am fonder of the city, and when she decides to remain all night on some road fourteen or fifteen miles from anywhere I have sometimes walked home rather than share the sylvan solitudes with her.

Under my breath I murmured: "Damn you, Grandmother," and hit the engine with my vindictive tan with the monkey wrench.

"Maybe there is no gasoline in the magneto," suggested Maryella, who had watched my struggle from the front seat.

I made no reply. When some one begins offering me suggestions after I have tried every known trick on a stalled motor I find that the only way to preserve my reputation as a gentleman is to keep absolutely silent.

Even Maryella, whom I have been trying for two years to persuade to become Mrs. Tom Bilbeck, can draw fire from me on such a dynamic occasion.

"We've got to get home, Tom," she fretted. "There's a rehearsal of 'Pygmalion and Galatia' to-night, and if we're away they can't do a thing."

No, reader, we are not actors. I am positive of that. Our stage-work receives mention only in the society column. We perform for charity before people who have to like us because we represent such worthy causes. Whenever the Social Settlement sends up a yell for funds we spend about a thousand dollars' worth of time enticing five hundred people to part with fifty cents each to hear us forget our lines.

When Belgium needs bread or the Fiji Islanders run out of pants, who comes to the rescue regardless of consequences? The Sheridan Dramatic Club!

And now we were doing "Pygmalion and Galatia" for the Old Soldiers' Home, which needed some new window-shades or an electric piano. I've forgotten which.

"Besides," continued Maryella, shivering slightly. "It's getting colder, and I think I felt a drop of rain a minute ago."

"Then being the case," I observed sarcastically, "we'll start."

"Let's," she encouraged.

Grandmother Page and I repeated our justly celebrated repertoire of tricks, from adjusting the spark-coil to putting gasoline in our eye while lying prone under the tank. Each separate adjustment was preceded and followed by reducing-exercises with the starting crank.

"Jim Cooper has a self-sartter on his car," Maryella observed sympathetically while I was trying to catch my breath.

"Then why?" I inquired in icy exasperation that I regretted instantly. "Why don't you marry Jim Cooper, if you're so crazy about a self-sartter?"

"Oh!" exclaimed Maryella, inarticulate with rage at my remark. "You have no right to insult me like that!"

"I didn't mean to insult you, dear," I forgot Grandmother Page for the moment in my anxiety to square my self for my tactical blunder.

It was the wrong move. My very humility made her think that she really had been offended in some way, so she dabbed at her pretty eyes. I felt that was part twilight and part gathering rainstorm.

"I know one thing," she stated, clammering out of the seat. "I'll never ride in your old car again as long as I live!"

She started down the road. "I'll walk home first!"

"Why are girls of twenty so adorable—and why are men a few years older such fools about them?"

The answer to that question may explain also why I followed her through the dusk that was part twilight and part gathering rainstorm.

"Listen, Maryella," I called after her. "Be reasonable."

No response.

"You can't walk all the way home. It's ten miles."

"I'd probably have to walk any—"

Correct this sentence: "He was born April first, but he's no April fool."

Life's little lesson, No. 543: You can't sit up all night and work the next day.

What this country really needs is more capable one-finger men on the typewriter.

Never lose sight of the fact that when you buy on credit, you have to pay more in the end.

There are many people who think that it takes sex to put the "art" in smart writing.

You can go all around the world without finding better neighbors than you have in Bay St. Louis.

Our weekly puzzle: "If the son of a dry senator gets drunk, what bearing has this on the price of corn?"

Low intelligence is led to poor food by some experts; we have seen some folk who evidently haven't had anything to eat.

President Hoover has proclaimed May 1st as Child Health day, and maybe some parents will pay some attention to it.

Few foreigners are simple enough to believe an official denial from the foreign office of a neighboring country.

Don't push, men; there's always a soul waiting on your subscription money when you come to the office of The Sea Coast Echo.

Add to famous last words, the sentence of the young man who said to a naval recruiting officer: "The marines run the navy, don't they?"

Few poor men can afford to represent the United States in the diplomatic service. Rich Uncle Sam makes ambassadors take care of their own expenses.

Advertising in 1929 will break all records for total volume, and yet there are a few wise boys in this country who still believe that the only reason a concern advertises is to bribe the publisher.

Our extra slice of pie for this week is awarded the modest secretary of the village chamber of commerce who reluctantly admits that his burg is not yet surpassing New York, Chicago and San Francisco, not to mention New Orleans.

It is quite interesting to note structural steel has arrived for the Chef highway bridge and such shipment is awaited at Rigolets. Hope is expressed the Chef bridge will be ready for use this summer. Every step nearer to a shorter route from New Orleans to the Gulf Coast is of more than ordinary interest and meaning.

POOR JOURNALISM.

The other day the son of a U. S. Senator was picked up in a large city somewhat under the influence of beverages other than water. It so happens that the father is a dry, that he has made enemies by other positions and that few of the larger newspapers have much use for him.

The story was sent out and featured by a number of newspapers, whose editors ought to have a better sense of fair play. If it had been the son of some of the editors, or possibly, some influential advertiser, few people believe that so much would have been made of the incident. No individual spree was worth the news space given it, and the assumption is that the story was "spite work."

This is not at all creditable to the general high standards maintained by our best newspapers. The average citizen will not be affected by the incident, except to applaud the father's statement that "you shouldn't exploit my son's weakness, you should try to help him. I will be waiting for him with open arms."

KEEP OUR SHIPS.

We thoroughly sympathize with the effort being made to create and maintain an American merchant marine. While such ships will have a value in time of war as an auxiliary to the Navy, they should be more valuable to the American people in times of peace, to prevent huge payments of freight tariffs to foreign corporations.

During the period when the United States was in the World War, approximately three billion dollars were spent by the American Government to build and acquire a fleet of ships. With the aid now being given by the Government, it is thought by Mr. Haag, an official of the Board, that we can "confidently look forward to increased activities on the part of American ship owners."

A rehearsal of the experiences this country had will emphasize the importance of maintaining an American merchant marine. Prior to the World War, more than nine-tenths of our commerce was carried on foreign vessels, which were withdrawn from such service as the countries at war needed their own ships. This made it necessary for America to build a fleet quickly and the fact that we spent several billions of dollars shows what failure to maintain and operate over a period of years an adequate merchant marine service can cost.

FLORIDA ON UPGRADE

Mr. B. C. Forbes, an interesting writer on financial topics, is of the opinion that "the corner has turned in Florida" and that the next movement in that state will be "upward." The Florida boom was extremely interesting to watch, provided you didn't get your hand burned in the attempt to pull out too many big chestnuts.

Mr. Forbes also calls attention to the new enterprise at Tampa, which helps the growers of vegetables and fruit by providing scientific management of merchandising. Among other things, it goes to the growers and brings in carloads of oranges and grapefruit, cleans and grades and packs them, automatically loads them into railway cars or into steamers, which land the shipments in New York and other cities at a much lower figure than the rail rate. Ships are also loaded with vegetables and other perishable merchandise in addition to fruit for shipment to the Pacific Coast, European ports, etc.

We are glad to see "Florida coming back," but Florida, like Mississippi, with its innumerable agricultural advantages, never had reason to "fall back."

Florida's success seems to affect ours. We can entertain winter visitors by the tens of thousands annually, and not lose sight of the fact we can grow in this section whatever will grow elsewhere in any section of the country—the early strawberry for instance; the pecan is king, and dairying is the coming and will be the paramount factor for South Mississippi.

ROCKEFELLER'S COMMENT.

Upon his recent return to America Mr. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., was asked to comment on the result of the successful battle he waged to defeat Col. Stewart for re-election as chairman of the board of directors of the Standard Oil Co., of Indiana, because of the Colonel's unfavorable position in regard to the notorious Continental Trading Co., and its ill-gotten gains. He said: "The actions taken require no comment. It makes it clear, however, that the thoughtful investor estimates the permanent and underlying value of an investment not alone in terms of dividends, essential as they are, but the terms of unquestioned integrity and singleness of purpose of management. The action is significant because it emphasizes the conviction that the highest ethical standards are as vital in business as they are in other relations of life."

We would like to think that this defeat of Col. Stewart represented the attitude of investors generally, but we can not. As we pointed out previously a majority of stockholders in number and a vast majority of the Company's employees supported Mr. Stewart. A minority, including some very big stockholders, followed the Rockefeller flag in the fight, some, we suspect, because of the prestige of the leader. If some ordinary stockholder had attempted such an attack on Mr. Stewart's leadership on moral grounds we greatly fear the melee would have been a massacre, with the Stewart forces doing the scalping.

WOMEN RULE MEN.

Are men more intelligent than women? Some years ago there were scientists that seriously attempted to make good on the superiority of the man. Today, there are few men in Bay St. Louis that pay much attention to the argument. They know better if and don't, their wives tell them soon enough.

Dr. F. A. Moss, professor of psychology, says that women are a shade more intelligent than men. This shows, says he, in the fact that they have reversed the laws of nature to attain social supremacy. Among all species of animals, except man, the male is more beautiful, the admired, the boss of the female, usually quiet and domestic. Not so, however, in the society of this section.

For the benefit of the women, whose progress in the face of male prejudices, seems conclusively to clinch Dr. Moss's view, let us call their attention to the failure that must come to them when they attempt to best man in physical things. As long as they can, and do, appeal to the ideals of mankind they will enjoy their present status, but, if the day comes, foreseen by pessimists, that they are harsh competitors of man, appealing only to his grosser nature, then the downfall is inevitable and their last state will be worse than their first.

WHY THE REVOLUTION.

The revolution in Mexico seems nearing its end. The government's forces, under Gen. Calles, attends to its work and the rebels retreat, almost without battle. Calles repeatedly refers to the struggle as the "Catholic revolution," although representatives of the church in this country declare that it has nothing to do with the movement.

Gen. Jesus Mari Aguirre, captured and executed, had much to live for, including vast land possessions. At one time he gave his son 300,000 acres and 10,000 cattle. What would make a man like Aguirre risk the confiscation of his property, when it would have been extremely profitable to placate the government?

Surely, some powerful motive moved Aguirre. It may have been hostility to some of the reforms being instituted in his country. Whatever it was he must be admired for the man he was, willing to put his winnings to the toss, and win or lose it all for what he thought right.

STIMSON DODGES.

Not everyone will be able to understand the social stir in Washington over the precedence to be, or not to be, accorded Mrs. Gann, the sister of Vice President Curtis, who is acting as his official hostess. Whether she ranks below diplomatic ladies, or not, does not seem vital in this part of the republic, but, then, such questions are important to those centered in the life they affect.

Secretary Stimson is not to be commended for his "passing the buck" to the foreign diplomats. When asked to advise them, he replied that the state department did not assume to tell them how they should seat their guests, but would appreciate any courtesies extended to the lady. This put the job on the foreign representatives and, at the same time, practically compelled them to "rank" Mrs. Gann.

18 Children in 9 Years.

The President Will Boss.

Strange Old Chinese.

McNary Asks Advice.

Let ladies who feel they really "can't afford more than two children with everything so expensive," consider Frau Alfred Voelner, of Demmin, Germany. Twenty-eight years old, she has eighteen children, all under nine years of age. She had a boy in 1920, a girl in 1922 and four sets of quadruplets in 1923, 1925, 1927 and 1928, sixteen children in four births. All are alive, ten boys, eight girls.

It is said here during the war that because conquerors no longer dragged women away into slavery, Germany would soon recover.

Frau Voelner confirms that.

Washington says President Hoover intends to be the boss of his party. He might well, since it gave him 22,000,000 votes. Republicans of the South are told the Republican party must be reconstructed there on a sound, permanent basis, on the assumption that the war is past and forgotten, and that the South will join Republican prosperity, politically, if the Republicans behave themselves.

Selling Federal offices to the highest bidder is to be stopped.

Some Congressmen insist that President Hoover must write a farm relief bill and let the party pass it. The president will probably say, "No, you write it and pass it. If it isn't too foolish I will sign it."

It is not easy to confer to a disorganized industry, millions of men on millions of farms, producing without method or plan, the prosperity enjoyed by well organized quantity production industry that pays good dividends.

A very old Chinese statesman named Wu Tze-Hui was one of three that on their word of honor, guaranteed the life and safety of Li Chai-sun, governor of Canton.

Li Chai-sun was executed by the Nationalists, in spite of the guarantee. The aged Wu Tze-hui considered himself disgraced and killed himself, although he had nothing to do with the execution of the man guaranteed. Many Westerners will find it difficult to understand that suicide.

Senator McNary, head of the Committee on Farm Relief, asks John D. Rockefeller, Jr., Henry Ford, Charles M. Schwab, J. P. Morgan, Paul M. Warburg and Owen D. Young to give advice.

That interesting collection of farmers would probably tell the farmers first of all to organize their business, eliminate lost motion and time, including an hour and a half for the hired man to harness and unharness the team. But Rockefeller, Schwab and Young decline to advise. Morgan is in Europe. The farmers will have to work out their problem.

Sir Hubert Wilkins plans to cross the Arctic in a submarine, under the ice, to map out the depth of water, shape of the basin containing the Arctic, etc.

He would follow cracks in the ice, coming up every twenty-four hours to recharge batteries.

Thus, for thousands of years, the seal and walrus have explored Arctic and Antarctic seas. They have known how to keep holes in the ice open all through the Winter, for breathing and observation. The lower animals show us, we improve on their methods.

POLITICAL EPIDEMIC

The Meridian Dispatch talks of politics, of which the south always has a surplus, and says:

Oklahoma has just ousted her governor. Louisiana is now in the throes of a gubernatorial impeachment.

The south is suffering from an infestation of rank factional politics—too many governors who have been impeached; too many ought to be impeached.

In regard to the Louisiana political fight, as Will Rogers would say: "All we know is what we read in the papers."

And that seems to be a plenty. It is difficult to understand why Louisiana ever elected Huey Long in the first place. It is likewise difficult to understand why Louisiana has delayed its present corrective action, in the second place. And it is getting time to understand the general southern hero-worship of the demagogue, in the third place.

It is not for us to offer Louisiana free advice. Perhaps she doesn't need it. Doubtless she wouldn't appreciate it.

We can merely watch proceedings and like Job's ass "sniff the smoke of battle" from afar.

However, we dare to venture the opinion that politics is one of our most troublesome American distemper. In the nation as a whole, politics "break out" every quadrennium; in most of the states every two years—and in most of the South, the disease is raging at the time.

National politics is like the chicken pox. Southern politics is like the seven year "itch"—once you get it, you've got it forever.

Comparatively, national politics is mild whereas local and state factional politics is violent. The one is a sort of rash upon the body politic, the other is a malignant form of pe-

ECHOES OF WEEK FROM ST. STANISLAUS COLLEGE

A very enjoyable entertainment was given jointly by the ladies of Pass Christian and the St. Margaret's Daughters of Bay St. Louis, last Friday evening in the College Auditorium.

Brother Peter was ill in bed last Friday but we are glad to have him back among us again.

Brother Robert, vice-president of the College, journeyed to Baton Rouge last Wednesday on business. While there he enjoyed a baseball game between L. S. U. and Alabama University.

Brother Conrad has prepared a baseball diamond for his junior division of the student body. The diamond is now in first class condition. Brother Conrad has erected a new back-stop, the grass has been cut and the pitcher's mound and box have been installed.

Brother Regis' league started its earnest last Thursday morning. It is now in full swing. All teams in the league are evenly matched and afford very interesting games.

The Southern A. A. U. meet is scheduled for Friday, May 10, at Loyola Stadium, New Orleans. St. Stanislaus is preparing to send entries to the meet.

The Times-Picayune has offered a medal to any boy who can qualify in four track events under certain limitations as follows: 100 yard dash, 11 4/5 seconds; 440 yard dash, 65 seconds; running high jump, 4 ft. 10 inches; running broad jump, 17 feet. 12 lb. shot, 30 feet; one mile run, 6 minutes.

Visitors.

Charles Cassidy was delighted by the visit of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Cassidy, and his grandmother, Mrs. Burke.

Joseph Sandoz and his two little brothers were visited by their Mother and brothers Roy and Claude Sandoz. Mr. and Mrs. H. Guenard, with their daughter Verna, came over from New Orleans to pay their weekly visit to their sons, Wilson and Hamilton.

Lloyd LeBoeuf was visited by his mother, Mrs. E. J. LeBoeuf, his sister, Annette, and his cousin Miss Pauline Muse.

Mrs. B. P. Sullivan, with her two daughters, Agnes and Alma, paid her weekly visit to her little son, Bart.

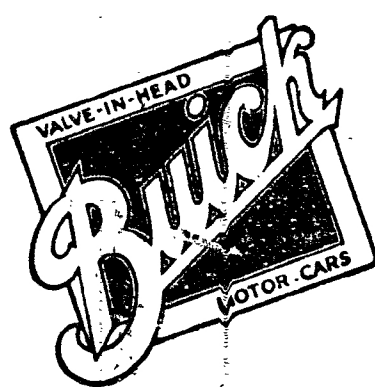

E. Chassanoff was visited by Miss Hermine McBee, Mrs. McBee, and E. Cowie, from Greenwood, Miss.

Edward Korndorfer was visited by his mother last Sunday.

Mrs. E. Fitch visited her little son, Howard.

Rock-A-Chaws Defeat McGill

In the opening game of the season Sunday afternoon the Rock-A-Chaws defeated McGill Institute of Mobile by a score of 3-2, in an exceedingly tight game replete with thrills throughout. The visitors opened the first inning with a double and single to put a man on second and third and incidentally to make the game look Mobilian from the start, but here "Cotton" Collier tightened down and zipped them across the plate in a way that made the visitors glad to resign their places on the bench. The St. Stanislaus gained a one run advantage when Dugas came home on a wild throw in the fourth inning. The game saw-sawed back and forth until the first half of the ninth when with the Rock-A-Chaws leading 3-1, a quick flurry of hits by the McGills gave them a run and loaded the bases preparatory to a few more runs that never materialized as Collier with masterful pitching closed the game.

WORK AND PLAY AT S. J. A.

Expression Classes Extend Invitation to Their Recital.

The Expression Classes at S. J. A., directed by Mrs. Val Yates are now ready for their recital which has been definitely fixed for Friday, April 19, at 8:15 P. M. The recital which is to be of a miscellaneous character is to take place at S. J. A.

The girls of the classes extend a cordial welcome to all their friends and relatives to spend this evening with them at S. J. A., Friday April 19, beginning at 8:15.

S. J. A. Receives Two Gifts During Past Week.
S. J. A. was the recipient of two most welcome and substantial gifts during the course of the past week. One of the gifts form a useful and valuable addition to the commercial department, and the second will increase the library by approximately one hundred volumes. Among the books donated are Dickens' and O. Henry's complete works while Kipling, Poe, Johnston and other outstanding names complete the list. We breathe a fervent prayer for and extend a hearty "thank you" to these two generous friends.

Athletics.
After a few weeks of complete inactivity following the close of the Basketball season, Athletics again loom big on the horizon at S. J. A.

A large number of girls presented themselves for track practice last Thursday afternoon while Kipling, Poe, Johnston and other outstanding names complete the list. We breathe a fervent prayer for and extend a hearty "thank you" to these two generous friends.

Found.
A wrist watch was found in the vicinity of S. J. A. by one of the pupils attending there. The loser may apply at the Academy for information about this watch.

Gym Fund to be Swelled by Entertainment.
Saturday, April 27 is the date set for the entertainment which is to be given by the Third and Fourth Grades for the benefit of the Gym Fund.

The other grades beginning with the little tots and on through the sixth grade are also to take part in the program and do their bit towards making this entertainment a success. So don't forget, get ready now for Saturday, April 27. We'll tell you more of the program next week, but we've caught glimpses of the "Gulf Coast Baby Show" and of certain little "Primroses" and we feel sure that a treat lies in store for you.

"Children of Mary Fair."
The Junior Children of Mary are making plans for their annual fair which is to be held on Saturday April 27th, and is to be given in conjunction with the entertainment, sponsored by the Third and Fourth grades.

The girls are all enthused over this event and are striving to improve on the splendid record made last year. The proceeds are to be added to the Gym Fund. The entire public is invited and urged to attend.

We hope, by the success of this fair to make our long dreamed of Gym come a big step nearer to reality.

Social News.

Last Thursday afternoon, the charming Miss Frances Manly entertained at the "Secluded Nook" with a dainty luncheon.

The repast began and ended with a delicious Sandwich which was thoroughly enjoyed by the self-invited guests.

These latter, a most fashionable "thrang" were the attractive Miss Dorothy Cassidy and the fascinating Miss Kate Allingham.

last seven days was one hundred and one per cent, exactly the same as last week. The eighth grade led with 100 per cent, each member of this class having made 19 visits. The fifth grade was second with 87 per cent or 17 visits per boy, and third, Mr. Wentworth's 11th grade comes with 49 per cent or 9 visits per boy.

The question, "What has Communism done for you?" Will be answered by every boy of each class some time this week. Some of the answers will be posted on the bulletin board and others read out at the next Sodality meeting.

The Communion average for the past week was as follows:

The Fifth grade came out on top with an average of 171 per cent, the Seventh grade came second with an average of 126 per cent, the Sixth grade came out third with 114 per cent, and the rest of the classes were: Special Class 100 per cent, Eighth grade 71 per cent, Ninth grade 66 per cent, Tenth grade 65 (Bro. Cy. 106 per cent, 11th grade 62 per cent, 12th grade 62 per cent, Eleventh grade (Mr. Wentworth) 92 per cent, Eleventh grade (Brother Albertus) 84 per cent, Twelfth grade 62 per cent.

The results for last week Communion show that Spring weather has caused the boys to lose interest in Communism. The smaller boys are especially trying to out do the larger boys in being good.

PETERSON WINS BY KNOCKOUT

Ewing Refuses to Fight Sailor or Forbes—Claims Not Enough Money

"Little Boy" Peterson, Kiln, welterweight, knocked out Carl D'Abate, of New Orleans, in the third of the scheduled ten-round main bout, at the local arena last Wednesday, before a disappointed crowd of fans, who went there expecting to see a real scrap, but which, in the first two rounds looked more like a "fake" affair than anything else.

The first round was so tame that neither fighter landed a blow hard enough to break an egg, with the second round just about as tame. In the third round Pete rushed out of his corner, and began to show a little of his "old self," peppering D'Abate with rights and lefts to the head and body, finally putting him down for the count, ending a poor and uninteresting scrap, one of the worst yet pulled off in the local arena.

Semi-Windup also Poor, Scrap.

Ralph Ewing, of Biloxi, originally scheduled to meet Sailor Forbes, of Bogalusa, in the semi-windup, refused to fight, claiming that the gate receipts were not enough to suit him and even when friends of Forbes offered to make a collection to pay him more, Ewing still refused.

It is just such fighters as Ewing who ruin the fight game here and elsewhere, and if the right thing is done the local Legion Post should request the State Boxing Commission to revoke his license, barring him from fighting anywhere in Mississippi, and if possible anywhere else.

Irish Cobb, another Biloxi lad substituted for Ewing, but because of lack of training took the count in the first round, crediting Forbes with his second one-round knockout here in as many starts.

The opening four-rounder brought together Harold (Kid) Bourgeois and Charlie Fayard, who took the count in the second round. Neither showed very much scrapping ability.

BIDS FOR ENGINE ARE PASSED TO NEXT MEET

The city commissioners held a brief session Monday, transacting routine work. Two bids were received, from Fairbanks-Morse & Company and from A. M. Lockard Company for supplying burning engines for pumping water for the city waterworks department. These bids were unanimously voted to be held over for action until the next regular meeting of the Board.

In 1928 IT TOOK THE RECEIPTS of 173 days TO PAY FOR 18 LABOR FUEL

57 days for MATERIALS SUPPLIES

30 days for ALL OTHER EXPENSES

20 days for TAXES

31 days for INTEREST AND RENTS

21 days for DIVIDENDS

16 days for IMPROVEMENTS

The above pictures and paragraphs tell in a most interesting way what becomes of the money American shippers and travelers spend for railroad transportation.

The figures quoted here are the records of the L. & N. R. R. for the year 1928, and apply generally to every other great trunkline system in the country.

Every dollar of revenue for 173 days out of the 366 was paid out for labor, every dollar of revenue for 57 days was required to supply fuel, the entire revenue of 57 days' operation was necessary for materials and supplies, while all other expenses required the total income of 30 days of railroad operation.

For 20 days during 1928, every dollar received by the railroad was paid out in state, federal, and county taxes. For 31 days, the revenues were expended in interest and rent, while 21 days' revenues were required to pay dividends to the owners of L. & N. securities, leaving a balance of but 16 days' revenue for improvements and betterments in the service.

Some part of this disbursement indirectly reached the readers of this newspaper and this statement is published simply to emphasize the mutual relation existing between this railroad and the community it serves.

Going To Try Again

By Albert T. Reid

But if you had been thrown off on your head a couple of times before, your morale might not be so good either.

way," she observed dispassionately, "so I might as well get started before dark."

That remark about walking home anyway was the crowning insult to me and Grandmother Page. It hurt the more because I was probably true. I turned back angrily. She shrugged on.

Down the road came a purring motor. I had hardly expected a car to pass that way. I had purposely chosen a back-country road for my drive with Maryella that day. This machine was coming from town.

I looked at a turn of the road around which it would presently appear. Maybe it was a friend of mine.

The car rounded the turn. I swore under my breath.

It was the racing machine belonging to Jim Cooper. No situation that I could imagine would please him questioning whether there is any sense in it. He plays golf because so many others seem to enjoy it, not from any love of the game. He is one of Maryella's admirers for the same reason.

Maybe I am prejudiced, but I can't believe that he really appreciates her adorableness.

Maryella is flattered by his attention, not knowing what a small tribute it is. The fact that he asks her opinion on every move he makes, from changing brands of tooth-powder to buying a summer home, caters to her love of power.

"Are you sure you've got gasoline in the tank?" Jim Cooper continued his ruthless assault on the remaining shreds of my temper.

"The trouble is in the spark," I volunteered briefly, looking around for a weapon in case he should ask another question.

Maryella Watching the Struggle from the Front Seat of Grandmother Page more and me less than that in which we were placed.

He pulled up alongside of Maryella, who had proceeded about two or three blocks before he arrived. After a short parley she got in beside him. I gnashed my teeth, but thanked Heaven that I would soon be alone to express my opinion on automobiles, nature, human beings and things in general.

No such luck. The car was coming on toward me. It pulled up alongside of Grandmother Page.

Maryella looked off across the fields on the other side of the road, but the driver got down from his seat and inspected Grandmother Page.

"What's the matter? Won't the engine run?" Jim Cooper is the kind of a man who would ask a question like that. His sense of humor is very low, just above that of an anthropoid ape. When bromidioms were being passed around he took one of each.

"I'll admit that he is rather a good-looking chap. His hair just escapes being too blond and he has a whisp of a mustache such as you see on the men in the clothing advertisements.

Nature did all she could for the suicide, but let him go without filling in the place which was originally intended for a mind. Whatever people seem to be doing he does without

"Oh! Can I give you a lift home, old man? Of course, there isn't an extra seat, but you could sit on the gasoline-tank at the rear. I think it will hold you."

He surveyed me doubtfully. A slight sneer from the lady in the car spurred me to a quick refusal. "No, thank you. I'll have my car going in a few minutes."

"Oh! Miss Waite told me, it would not go at all."

"Did she?" I murmured politely. "I didn't know that she was interested."

"Maybe we had better wait," he suggested, "until you get started, and follow you into town. Then if anything goes wrong we can pick you up along the road."

"Please don't," I urged, with just a shade of feeling showing in my voice.

"Just as you say, old top. I'd like awfully well to help you if I could."

He got back into his car and insulted us once more with the subdued but efficient purr of his electric starter. Then waving at me stily, he turned about and disappeared in a cloud of dust toward the city.

I sat by the roadside and told myself that I was probably one of the seven worst "fussers" in the United States and the Dominion of Canada.

Golf—An Appreciation

Golf is a fiery furnace that tries the souls of men. It refines the dross from their nature and purges them of all uncleanness. What does for the physical man it also does for the spiritual. When one has a thorough training at golf his soul is attuned to higher things. If he had a temper, the attrition of conflict and trial has changed it into a spirit that suffers and is still. He has learned to put his tongue in leash, to confine his expressions to the game, without expressing his opinion of his partner or his opponent. It will make a sour heart kindly, distill into drops of heavenly dew the percolations of the most acrid disposition, and make the rose of resignation blossom on the dreariest cheek. It can transform a heathen into a Christian and light the torch of hope in his arid breast. Golf teaches patience, self-control and forgiveness. In a fierce encounter, our neighbor's delinquencies, our neighbor's moods are not discernible. Freed from corroding cares, fancy on the fair green dons a new and iridescent plumage. The heart has no room for hate the mind is clarified as in an alambique; the vision encompasses fair and far horizons; the uplands, gleaming tender green in the sun, are heights worth winning. Mean souls shrivel in contemplation of the frankness and manliness it engenders. Golf regenerates, reforms, recreates. It makes companions out of recluses and good fellows out of bad ones.—Daniel E. O'Sullivan.

I had played by game like a fifteen eweled boob. The first rule for making a girl eat out of your hand is never to let her know when you get mad. The second is not to be sorry if you do. I had a blow-out in both ways.

While I sat there it began to drizzle, but I thought too little of myself to care to move, so I didn't. Instead I recollected with delightful pain how eminently desirable Maryella was.

Slim and slender and cool-looking she was obviously the handiwork of a beauty-loving god who wanted to show what he could do. But she had eyes, dark ones, that came from no heavenly work-shop. In them there was a bit of temper, of daring and an invitation to come along that was irresistible.

If a man must lose his head over a woman, Maryella's type offers the utmost justification. If you had any curiosity and a wee bit of nerve, you made up your mind that you would have to find out whether to believe her eyes or the rest of her face.

Up to that afternoon I had been doing pretty well, too. Not having money in sales, I had started against Cooper with a considerable handicap. He worked short hours in his father's office, which would eventually be his; while I perged away for a salary—a good one, but nothing that would make the mint work over me to keep up with me.

There is no use concealing what my job is. A good many people know already from having seen my name signed at the bottom of a column of alleged humor which I conduct daily for a syndicate of newspapers. Any one who has read my stuff knows that I work hard for my money, especially when I write verse.

Besides my syndicate work I do all the big stories for the Daily Mail, which is the prime pulp morning paper of our city. It is pleasant, because I do not have to be in the office constantly like a regular reporter. When they need me they send for me. When there is a big political convention or a disaster or a sensational murder I usually cover it.

I had been offered a job as war correspondent, but I declined. Just because Irvin S. Cobb got back with all his arms and legs attached "no sign that they wouldn't be able to hit the very fat man that went over."

When I was thoroughly wet through so that it didn't make any difference what I did, I decided that I might as well start for home. It would be more comfortable to die of pneumonia in my own bed. So I got up and sloshed over to the car to get my coat, which I had laid aside when the contest between me and Grandmother Page began.

Just by way of a passing expression of my feelings I gave the crank a turn.

"Bang!" The engine started. I stood in the rain a full minute longer relieving my mind before I mounted to my seat and steered old Grandmother Page back over the sloppy roads to the city.

What was the use now?

TWELVE STARS DEPICT ROLES IN MYSTERY FILM

Screen Artists of Repute Featured in Adaptation of Owen Davis' Stage Success "The Donovan Affair."

Not in years has there been a more notable combination of talent than in the screen adaptation of Owen Davis' famous stage mystery, "The Donovan Affair," a Columbia all-talking production scheduled to play at the A. & G. Theatre Sunday and Monday evenings. Jack Holt, Dorothy Revier and William Collier, Jr., are featured in the leading roles. Frank R. Capra directed this thrilling mystery drama with the cast that smacked of a "Who's Who" in Hollywood.

John Roche, recently seen in "Diamond Handcuffs," plays the part of Jack Donovan, about whom the mystery centers. Fred Kelsey, seen in "The Gorilla" as one of the two "boob detectives," is Carney, the sleuth who hinders rather than helps the investigation. Hank Mann, hero of a hundred comedies will be seen as Dr. Lindsey, a sleek but humorous character. Agnes Ayres, former Paramount star and noted for her many splendid portrayals, will be seen as Lydia Rankin, the beautiful second wife of Peter Rankin, at whose home the mystery takes place. Wheeler Oakman, the ill-fated Porter who is mysteriously slain during the action of the picture. He will be recalled for his important characterization in Columbia's "The Power of the Press." Virginia Brown Faire, who has been seen in numerous important productions, appears as Mary Mills, the maid who is framed in the plot. Alphonse Ethier, appearing as Peter Rankin at whose birthday dinner two murders are committed, has had prominent roles in "The Dead Line" and in "Hardboiled." Ethel Wales, remembered for many famous roles including her part in "The Covered Wagon" and such recent productions as "The Mask of the Devil" and "Craig's Wife," interprets the part of the three featured players, Jack Holt, Dorothy Revier and William Collier, Jr., the mere mention of their names recalls to followers of the A. & G. Theatre films a long list of outstanding successes.

This galaxy of artists, chosen for their acting ability, excellent speaking voices and fitness to their respective roles enhances tremendously the interest in "The Donovan Affair," a story that combines a logical mystery with a great love theme.

LOGTOWN ELECTS P-T. A. OFFICERS FOR NEW YEAR

At a meeting of the Logtown Parent-Teachers' Association, held a few days since, Mrs. Emilie Lott was elected president, Mrs. G. W. Hillis, vice president, Mrs. Harold B. Weston, secretary-treasurer. The newly elected officers at once assumed their responsibilities and continue the splendid work accomplished from time to time by the organization. Trustees of the Logtown school have also re-elected Prof. G. W. Hillis to be principal of the school 1929-30 session, and given him the authority to select the assisting faculty, on the theory that he knew best the needs of the school and since he had to work with the others it was better that he make the selection, to be approved by the Board of Trustees.

"The progress of a city, like the progress of a nation, is measured by the quality of its homes," Mayor Scott states in his proclamation. "I recommend that earnest thought be given this campaign and that every family in the city seek an opportunity to see and to study one of the demonstration homes being furnished and equipped by public-spirited citizens."

REGISTERING VOTERS

A. G. Favre, county clerk, is engaged this week in registering voters in the various precincts of the county, spending a day at the 14 precincts as advertised in the Echo recently. The purpose of the visit about the county is to make it easier for the voters to register in their own precincts than for them to come to the court house for registration. The board voted to require a registration of all voters of the county during the month of April. Mr. Favre will be engaged next week in visiting those precincts not visited this week.

W. D. JANIN, REGIONAL DEPUTY BOY SCOUTS OF AMERICA VISITS

Is Guest of Rotary Club—Here in Interest of Organizing Local Scout Unit

W. D. Janin, Regional Deputy of the Boy Scouts of America with headquarters at Memphis, Tennessee, was a guest of the Bay Rotary Club on Wednesday. He made a brief talk to the club about the growth of the Boy Scout movement in America, stating that since its inception over three and one half million American boys have received the benefits of the program.

He is making a survey of the Gulf Coast cities to determine the possibilities of organizing local scout units in each of the coast cities. The plan for promoting the work as it was outlined to the Executive Board of the Club, is to have a trained scout worker organize and direct the scout activities in Bay St. Louis throughout the entire year. The Club was not requested to assume definite responsibility for the program, but the board are favorably disposed to present by Mr. Janin and assured him they would do all within their power to sponsor the Boy Scout work.

W. B. A. HOLDS MEET IN NEW HALL, BOX SUPPER ENJOYED

A. Scafile Building on Railroad Avenue Now Used by Local Women's Lodge.

Through the courtesy of A. Scafile, owner of a store building on Railroad avenue, the Bay St. Louis Review of the Women's Benefit Association, popular women's lodge, now meets in that building. The W. B. A. has dubbed the building the W. B. A. Gypsy Camp, and plans extensive furnishing of the room for their use as a lodge and social center.

The new meeting place was christened, as it were, Tuesday night when the regular business meeting was followed by a box lunch in which all members participated. At the close of the business session which was devoted largely to discussion of furnishing the room, the boxes of delicious lunches which the members had prepared were opened and shared with partners. A surprise prize was arranged for each by Miss Levia Engman, wherein each member was given a number and upon finding a large box labeled with this number, discovered a prize in the box. Announcement was made that the members would hold a shower for the new lodge room in May. Committees were appointed to furnish the room including Miss Levia Engman, chairman of decoration; Miss Mary Scafile, chairman of painting committee, and Miss Amelia Scafile, chairman of moving committee.

Mrs. R. B. Engman, a valuable member of the lodge, has loaned a piano for use in the lodge hall. The kitchen attached to the room promises many good cooking occasions for the members.

Mrs. Green: "I never walk under a ladder. I think it's most unlucky." Mrs. Morgeson: "Well, I call that silly. I just place the tips of the little fingers together, bend the other three into the palm, cross the thumbs, say 'magnum bonum,' and walk right under any ladder. If you do that you're perfectly safe. I can't stand silly superstitions myself."

Hints for the Home

by Nancy Hart

As a variation for pictures or mirrors a very attractive bit of decoration or the bare wall space may be furnished by a wall sconce used to hold flowers or trailing ivy.

In a Spanish or Italian room the wrought iron sconce is effective; likewise the colorful pottery sconce typical of the period. In 18th Century rooms the wall pocket or painted tin or quaint old porcelain is most appropriate, while for modernistic rooms, there are many delightful new designs in opaque or colored glass, metals, or pottery.

These wall decorations are especially appropriate for the season which is just at hand.

People Like Flowers

Folks do like flowers, as has been evidenced during the past few weeks by the thousands of visitors who have come from all parts of the world to view the wonderful old gardens in the lower South Carolina. Perhaps the most noted are Magnolia and Middleton Place Garden, of Charleston, both being ancient and beautiful; and connoisseurs say they are the most beautiful in the world when their myriads of azaleas are open during March and April.

Then Balls Isle Gardens of Georgetown, South Carolina, are also magnificent old gardens, and it is doubtful if there is a town anywhere that shows more splendor in natural beauty than does Summerville, South Carolina, known the world over as the "Flower Town."

These gardens have for years been attracting visitors, and another beauty spot in the same section of the State, but just a little higher up, has during the past few years been set along the clear stream Edisto River, at Orangeburg, and visitors going down stream over there to view the azaleas and roses that bloom in profusion at this new municipal project.

Each year the throng of visitors increases and all of the main roads in lower Carolina are almost a continuous stream of autos during the Garden season, and especially so the week ends and Sundays.

People really do love flowers and will travel far and spend much money to see them.

GUIDEPOSTS TO Health and Happiness

By Bernard Macfadden

HOW HIGH ARE YOUR PHYSICAL IDEALS?

Physical ideals are as important as mental ideals. They are fundamental. Through them you are able to develop a foundation upon which the whole structure of human life must be built.

I have six daughters to educate, and I consider one of the most important phases of their education is a proper understanding of what their own physical personality should approximate, as well as a general knowledge of the physical nature of both sexes. Such knowledge gives a boy or girl a clean, wholesome attitude toward sex life. It saves them from the unwholesome attraction of "snutty" stories, and gives them a high standard of respect for their own bodies.

A boy who is ashamed of his body and knows little of what his form should approximate, as a man, cannot enthusiastically or successfully work for the development of superior, and splendid manhood.

If a young man has no opportunity to view finely developed female figures, his judgment in selecting his life mate will be warped. How can he know that true beauty is based on health and strength and that his children may reap the tragedy of his ignorance?

And yet, every so-called reformer is working for the purpose of suppressing the presentation of undraped figures. He would take away from the human race the inspiration that aids and stimulates the development of priceless physical ideals.

Don't let him fool you. Nakedness and mental cleanliness go together. The more you are able to view perfect specimens of fully developed manhood and womanhood the cleaner and more wholesome your mind will be in reference to all physical things. Begin now—while you are young—to build up your ideals about physical beauty and health. Go to the art galleries for your inspiration. Find out the truth for yourself.

Purity needs no clothes; innocence needs no adornment. Set the very highest standard of physical perfection for yourself and the one who is to be your mate and don't let anyone talk you out of it.

Mississippi Happenings

BELZONI BUNCO—

One brave buncoer beat two Belzoni businessmen out of half a month's salary last week when he handed each a bum check, received cold cash in return, went hot-footing for parts farther on. On the dotted line of each check was the forged signature of a Belzoni lumberman.

BABE—

Wrapped in finest swaddling clothes and lying in a basket, a month-old "Norma" slept in blissful unconcern last week while unknown parents placed her on the steps of the Pinnix hotel at Ackerman; left her. Giggly and good-natured, "Norma" is popular.

LINDY LANDING—

Colonel Charles Lindbergh zoomed from Mexico toward Washington. Through the carburetor of his big engine flowed gallon after gallon of gas. With a few quarts left, the Colonel watched for a landing place; spotted one, swooped down, found himself in Mexican. Reporters wanted to know about Ann Morrow. He wouldn't tell them.

FREE FORD—

There is a first class Ford at McComb that can be had by most anybody who will step forward and claim it, according to Sheriff Thad Elzey. Only one stipulation does the sheriff make; that whoever claims the Ford must also claim the nine gallons of whiskey found in it.

CAT TALE—

J. E. Moss of Laurel believed there were big fish in small Tallahanna creek. So sure was he that he bought a big hook, hung a perch on it, set it out. Next morning he found three layers of fish, first a 32-lb. cat, second a 3-pound cat, third, his original perch, still alive.

IVAN—

Ovan Fabulic was born in Jugo Slavia 21 years ago. Last fall he went to Italy; thence to Mexico. During recent weeks he has sneaked along the U. S. southern shore like hoping to get to New York. As he started north from Gulfport last week, immigration officers nabbed him; started him back to Jugo Slavia.

FISH FRY FLOP—

Because they were impatient for their fish to finish frying so they could begin their feast, Bassfield negroes fretted and fumed; finally had a free-for-all fight. Practically every negro man in the city took part.

HOT TAMALES MEN—

Mexican Joe Messian, 23, reddied hot tamales in Jackson. So did the Mexican Santiago, 60. Alike in business, the two were unlike in politics. Last week they met on the street, discussed the Mexican war, argued, grew angry. Santiago pulled a butcher knife, used it, won, is now wanted by cops.

INSULT—

Ole Miss head Alfred Hume hopped heatedly in Annual Editor Fergus Lloyd upon appearance of the University yearbook this spring. Said Hume: "It is an insult to every sister and mother of an Old Miss man." Said Lloyd, "We are indeed very sorry."

Attractive Home And Flower Garden

The home of Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Norman on Carroll avenue is quite attractive. Located on a high, well-drained lot the grounds have an unusually charming appearance. Many flowers, especially the annuals, are in full bloom about the home and at this time create a beauty spot of every part of the yard. Particularly lovely is the red rambling which climbs to the side of the garage. Sweet peas are in blossom as are many other flowers.

Two of a Kind

"May I call on you?"
"I'm sorry, but I'm married."
"Well, I'm married too and just as sorry."—Tit-Bits.

JUGOSLAVIAN IS ARRESTED FROM L. & N. TRAIN

Immigrant Is Taken From Train at Bay St. Louis, After Coming From Mexico

Visions of a peaceful railway ride to New York, followed by induction into the fighting forces of the Ford Motor Company in that city, faded into thin air before the eyes of Ivan Fabulic, 21-year-old native of Jugoslavia, when Senior Inspector C. B. Nelson of the immigration border patrol took Fabulic from a Louisville and Nashville railroad passenger train at Bay St. Louis Monday and had him locked in Harrison county jail on a charge of crossing the Mexican border into the United States without inspection by immigration authorities.

With the dogs of war barking at his heels, Fabulic crossed from Nuevo Laredo, Mexico, to Loredo, Texas, on the opposite side of the Rio Grande River on April 1, bearing a Mexican immigration permit but failing to call on the United States immigration inspector at Laredo for papers of admission to the United States.

Fabulic said he paid $5 to a New Orleans taxicab driver for the short ride on Canal street from one station to another.

A passport in Fabulic's pocket showing that he had been in Trieste, Italy, on October 15, 1928, but his Mexican certificate recorded his entry at Puerto Mexico as "illegal."

Immigrant Inspector W. J. Huxley at Gulfport said Fabulic would be held for deportation to Jugoslavia, but that he would secure a refugee from the railroad company for the young man's ticket from Bay St. Louis to New York.

HONEYSUCKLE TIME

"Honeysuckle time" might well be featured in the minds of Coast residents as a season of most delightful delights when the air is permeated with the pungent pleasant smell of this kindly blossom, which is in full bloom at this season. Growing wild through the woods, climbing on trees, clinging to fences and trellises, it is found in almost every street and with only a slight encouragement will flourish in any garden.

There are three varieties which are found in the woods, the ordinary white which turns creamy yellow after being opened for a day, the variety which is pink underneath, and the coral honeysuckle or woodbine. These three varieties planted so that they entwining form an entrancing spot in any yard where there is space for the long tendrils which the vines form.

SWEET PEAS BLOOMING

Especially lovely sweet peas are noted blooming in great profusion in yards of Mrs. G. W. Schindeldecker, of Court street where there is a long row of them. Mrs. Jos. V. Bontemps of Main street where annually lovely sweet peas flower; and Mrs. Egan of Main street. This popular flower has burst into full flower in the past few days and the brilliant color is especially attractive as is the fragrance of the blossoms.

Mrs. H. C. Glover, Miss Evelyn Lacoste and Mrs. E. J. Lacoste. They report the exhibit a success with many beautiful flowers shown from the gardens of the members.

Beautiful Music

Many complimentary remarks have been heard regarding the beautiful music at the First Methodist church Easter Sunday night, calling especial attention to the anthem by the choir, "Hosanna" by Jules Granier, in which Benny Hille was the soloist. Mrs. H. U. Canty is director of the choir and pianist.

Worried Night after Night as health declined

"I suffered frequently from nervous headaches and I could not sleep well," says Mrs. Cora Dover, R. F. D. 2, Hickory Grove, S. C. "I was thin and pale. I was so weak I could scarcely walk. I tried several remedies which were suggested, but nothing seemed to help me. Night after night I worried because I could see I was going down-hill. I had my children to look after, and I was afraid of what would become of them if anything happened to me."

"I began to take Cardui on the recommendation of a friend. It wasn't long until I was beginning to pick up. My strength gradually began to return. I rested better at night and was less nervous. I took several bottles of Cardui and when I had finished taking it I was in fine health."

BAY WAVELAND IS BEING BUILT UP BY NEW ORLEANS

(N. O. Times-Picayune)

The Bay Waveland section of the Gulf Coast will have the best summer season in its history. This outlook is predicted on a 50 per cent increase in demand for summer leases in the section this season as compared with last, and a building program which has amounted to about $50,000 in residential construction since last May.

The movement to the Bay Waveland district, which is mostly of New Orleans people, has been due to completed improvements chief among which are the seawall and paved road finished after the end of the summer rental season of 1928. These improvements cost nearly a million dollars and the pavement and seawall extends the whole distance from Lakeshore to North Bay St. Louis, a stretch of approximately ten miles.

"Residential properties leased for the summer season or for the year in the Bay Waveland district up to now shows an increase of almost 50 per cent over last year," declared R. Terrell Perkins, specialist in this section. "The Bay and Waveland will have the best season in its history and before long there will not be a house for rent in the summer. Every Sunday a half-dozen of the better places are leased. New Orleans people are just beginning to wake up to the fact that the Bay and Waveland are up-to-date, improved sections and as desirable as anything on the Coast."

Bay St. Louis has spent good money to bring this about. Today the motorist can ride on a new paved road right along the beach front, practically on top of the handsome seawall, while heretofore a great portion was inaccessible except from the rear."

Mr. Perkins named some of the more important beach front residential construction completed or now in course of construction since last season. The names of owners and approximate valuations of the finished properties are as follows: Dr. John T. Dix, $20,000; Guy Hopkins, $15,000; Dr. J. T. Hales, $12,000; Siler, $20,000; R. Holzer, $22,000; I. R. Allen of Chicago, $30,000; C. C. Piper, $12,000; an Emily Gelton, $22,000. Some of the older properties which have been renovated and their new value are as follows: A. K. Roy, $45,000; John Reed, $15,000; W. McDonald, $25,000; and Earnest Leonard, $25,000. All of these properties are on the beach front. Mr. Perkins estimates that construction amounting to at least $100,000 has been done off the beach.

The accessibility of the Bay Waveland district, which can be reached in two hours and fifteen minutes by motor from New Orleans and to which eight trains daily are offered by the Louisville and Nashville railroad and eleven on Sundays during the summer makes this section the most desirable to New Orleans people. The free bridge across Bay St. Louis giving easy access to Pass Christian and Biloxi is a desirable feature of the Bay section."

With the completion of the free bridges at Chef Menteur and the Rigolles and a paved highway to the Bay, Mr. Perkins anticipates a shortage of property in the section. He said that even today, out of about three and a half miles of very desirable waterfront property not more than 1500 feet was available at under $100 a front foot. He said that the present exodus of New Orleans people to the Bay St. Louis area this summer was only a precursor of what was to come.

BAY BEES LOSE TO OCEAN SPRINGS

After being set back in their opening game last week by the Biloxi Sea Gulls, the Ocean Springs' Cubs jumped into the win column by trouncing the Bay St. Louis Maccabees by a 7 to 1 score yesterday in a game that was played on the Cubs lot with the Hancock county outfit playing as the home club.

The defeat for the Bay St. Louis club was the second straight and they have yet to break into the win column as the Bees were turned back by the Pass Christian Pirates in the opening battle of the season.

The Mags were the first to score yesterday by counting one marker in the first frame when Bourgeois led off with a single and advanced to second when Keystoner boomed a ground hit ball with a probable twin killing in sight, both runners going safe. Bouden struck out while Laderne lofted to Catchot but Tudury, the Saints' new man, singled to score Bourgeois for the second station. That, however, ended the scoring for that inning and also for the rest of the game as far as the Bees were concerned.

The game was played during a steady drizzle, both teams exhibiting good fielding for the playing contest. Both outfits were charged with two miscues each.

The Bees play Gulfport Sunday at Gulfport Park. Emil (Pete) Perre, local boy and former Stanislaus player has joined the "Bee" outfit.

BAY ST. LOUIS PRESENT AND FUTURE

Bay St. Louis, Miss., April 16, 1929.

Editor Sea Coast Echo.

Bay St. Louis, has for a century been known as a resort, first only for the heated period or summer season, after which the natives hibernated for the winter, like the alligator, or lived on their own fat, but there came a change (as all things human change)

while only recently, even the Coast has bid for the winter tourists or as an ideal resort as such (bar none) Florida or California not excepted, our best bet and proudest boast is as our "all-year" resort and the former sleepy little hamlets have grown into prosperous progressive communities linked by fine paved roads, bridges, etc., with nothing lacking that nature does not supply—what some years ago was a matter of days is now of minutes, while we'll have the charms of the other coast towns or cities to the own people to mention, our first duty is to our own Bay St. Louis (the city of homes). Some communities come into existence like the mushroom, based on a temporary commodity, where the thought of Home, Sweet Home, would almost be a sacrilege and fade away like the deserted cities of the west, or the sawmill towns of the New England and Great Lake States—But a town or city that makes no greater claim than one of homes, can make no prouder boast or build on a surer foundation. We have much to feel proud of ourselves. No wonder strangers marvel at our modesty when they compare us and ours, to others they have seen, a trunk line railroad with 18 trains in 24 hours, through bus line, 2 banks, 2 colleges, High School, Ward schools, all Churches, 3 or 4 suburban chapels, splendid county seat-site and officers likewise city, paid police and fire department, good fishing, boating, etc.,—what more can human desire. We feel quite sure that in a very few years dairying, strawberry growing and trucking will be in the present instead of the future tense, thus adding to our material advancement and in the meantime we'll go on as we have been doing building a city of homes, where love and peace reign and children laugh and shout.

Many Making Home Brew

Evidently American people are determined to have their beer and, in spite of the three hundred millions of dollars spent by the government to make Volsteadism effective, the United States seems to have been turned into a Nation of home brewers, distillers and wine makers.

Virtually every chain store, corner grocery, delicatessen and hardware store in the land is selling both the raw material and the accessories used in the new national industry and prohibition enforcement chiefs admit the situation is unsatisfactory.

Official figures compiled by the Government's own experts disclose the following facts:

1. The production of corn sugar, although its legitimate uses strictly are limited by law, has increased ninefold in nine years, and, according to Prohibition Commissioner J. M. Doran, 95 per cent of the whiskey

The Careless Letter Writers

(Editorial in St. Paul Pioneer Press.)

The American public was 8.5 per cent less careless or inaccurate about addressing its mail in 1928 than in 1927. Even so, the annual report of Postmaster General Nease shows that 23,649,044 letters went to the dead letter office in 1928.

Of course not all of these letters went astray because of carelessness or illegibility of addressing. In many cases misdirection of mail is unavoidable because addresses have moved leaving no trace. But letters need not be condemned to hopeless wandering, ending finally in the dead letter office for that reason. If senders will only place a return address on the envelope their mail can be spared the humiliation of such an inglorious death. Indeed the Postal department attributes the improved showing of last year to its campaign to induce the public to give return addresses.

How much carelessness there does exist in the addressing of mail, however, can be appreciated from the fact that many of these dead letters contain money. Cash and currency found in dead letters amounted in 1928 to nearly $100,000, and the nominal value of drafts, money orders and checks contained was well over five millions.

now consumed in the United States is made from this sugar:

2. In two years, from 1925 to 1927 the wholesale sales of malt sirups and extracts used by home brewers jumped from $19,439,430 to $30,343,478, and to meet this increased demand the production of bottle caps mounted from slightly more than 50,000,000 gross in 1924 to more than 76,000,000 gross in 1927.

3. The production of grapes, stimulated almost entirely, it is asserted, by the demand for home wine makers, increased from 1,561,000 tons in 1919 to 2,636,076 tons last year.

Accurate totals of the number and value of the huge quantities of bottle capping devices, bottles, household wine presses, and distilling apparatus sold on every hand throughout the country are not available.

Fine New Fence for College

Work has already begun on an outstanding improvement for the Union street line of St. Stanislaus College property, where formerly a mass'ive, solid concrete high wall was not only unsightly but proved a menace since it shielded the gateway and obscured traffic.

Wider sidewalk has been lined off and the work of pouring concrete is in progress. Over this there will be a two-foot coping of concrete blocks and setting on this a six-foot fence of heavy steel mesh—substantial and yet ornamental, and not obscuring vision.

Major improvement for S. S. C. is in the planning and in due time will be announced in these columns.
